

Gambling funding in the UK: A correction

Dr Mark D. Griffiths

Professor of Gambling Studies
International Gaming Research Unit, Psychology Division
Department of Social Sciences, Nottingham Trent University
Burton Street, Nottingham, NG1 4BU, United Kingdom
mark.griffiths@ntu.ac.uk

Following the publication of my article in a recent issue of Gambling Research (Griffiths, 2009), it has been brought to my attention that the joint Economic and Social Research Council/Responsibility in Gambling Trust initiative that I mentioned was actually initiated in the 2005/2006 academic year and not 2007 as I had stated. Therefore, the quote from “the (then) CEO of RiGT” was not from Mr Malcolm Bruce (who was the RiGT CEO in 2007) but his predecessor. I wish to offer my unreserved apologies to Mr Bruce for any undue and/or undeserved attention that he may have received as a direct result of my mistake relating to the ESRC/RiGT funding initiative starting date.

Reference

Griffiths, M.D. (2009). Gambling research and the search for a sustainable funding infrastructure. Gambling Research, 21(1), 28–32.